The Name Jesus

The Messiah, the Saviour from sin, is both God and man. The name Jesus established His identity. The Child of Mary was like no other child. Born in lowliness, He is the great God and only Saviour. His name was neither Mary's nor Joseph's choice.

The message of the angel made this plain. It was the Father's will that the Child's name should be Jesus. It was likewise by heavenly wisdom that the name was interpreted: "For He shall save His people from their sins."

Each word contains a marvellous treasure and reveals a wonder of its own. Combined together, they speak of a most precious grace, of grace for sinners, of grace without measure.

The original language emphasizes the pronoun He, and so directs our attention to the important truth that He, and He alone does undertake this mission so unique.

Salvation from sin depends wholly on Him. Not a single contribution can ever come from any other source. The exclusive hope of the sinner lies in this precious Person. He became poor that sinners such as we might be made rich.

The divine interpretation of the name Jesus begins with the precious pronoun He. It continues with the word shall. He shall. There is nothing wavering or uncertain about His mission. It shall be performed. The Father appointed Him to redeem from sin, death, and hell.

Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. In order to accomplish salvation He suffered all throughout His life. In Gethsemane and at Calvary He took away sin by bearing it upon Himself. He did not rest until He could triumphantly cry out: It is finished.

He left nothing to be finished! He shall save His people. The reference is to the people of God's eternal good pleasure. He does not save them because they are better than others. No not at all. By grace God's people learn to know their sins. Seeing their own utter helplessness they flee to the Saviour from sin.

"His name shall endure for ever."
